

What to do when someone dies

Help during a difficult time

How we can help

Grieving is hard enough without having to consider financial matters.

Dealing with the money that's tied up in accounts can be difficult, but this guide will help you sort things out. It also explains who needs to do what and when. It takes you through the process step-by-step so that you feel comfortable with it.

We can help to make it a little bit easier. We have a team here to support you. They know what to do.

There is a lot of legal wording around the subject of death, so we explain everything as we go along. However the contents of this guide are not legal advice, so we suggest you talk to a solicitor.

We're here to help. Here are the ways you can contact us:

- Email us at: bereavement.uksupport@aib.ie
- Phone our Bereavement Support Team on 0345 646 0320 Monday to Friday 0900 to 1700
- Write to us at: UK Bereavement Support Team,

1. Steps to take when someone dies

There are some things that you need to do straight away and some that can wait until later.

If you take a little time now it will help to avoid possible delays.

1 Register the death

The doctor or hospital will give you a medical note. Bring this to your local Registrar of Births, Marriages, Civil Partnerships and Deaths. They will give you a death certificate (more than one certificate can be obtained when you register the death), or an interim death certificate, either of which we accept. (Except in Scotland, a certified Medical Certificate of Cause of Death (MCCD) also known as the Form 11, must be completed by a doctor).

2 Tell us who has died

Email details of customer death to Bereavements.uksupport@aib.ie or post to UK Bereavement Support Team, 1st Floor, 92 Ann Street, Belfast BT1 3HH. If applicable, our team will inform other teams within AIB.

3 Find the will

A will is a legal document that says what to do with someone's money after their death. It also tells you who is going to represent the person who has died. These people are called executors and they are responsible for dealing with everything the person who has died owns and owes – their estate.

When we know who is representing the estate and you identify yourself, we can give you information about the accounts and the balances.

4 Pay for the funeral

If there is enough money in the accounts of the person who died, we can use the money in the accounts to pay for the funeral and expenses such as flowers and catering. We can either pay suppliers, or we can pay you back directly if you give us the receipts or invoices.

5 Getting money from the accounts of the person who died, if the account was in their name only

If there is money in accounts belonging to the person who has died and they also have a loan, credit card, or overdraft with us, we may use this money straight away to pay off what is owed.

If there is over £25,000 in the accounts of the person who died, you will need to show us the Grant of Representation that says you are representing the estate.

If there is £25,000 or less in accounts held in the name of the person who has died you don't need a Grant of Representation, but if you do have one, we need to see it.

6 Getting money from the accounts held with the person who died

If you held an account with the person who died, the money in that account is usually yours. We can check that for you. We explain this in section 3 'What happens to the accounts?' of this guide.

2. What we need from you

There are documents we need to see to help you sort out the accounts. These will need to be posted (we recommend recorded Delivery) to AIB Bereavement UK Support Team, Ann Street, Belfast BT1 3HH.

1 Death Certificate

We need to see the original death certificate or the interim death certificate. We will need to see the original so that we can take a copy. Alternatively, you can ask a Solicitor or Accountant to certify as being a true copy of the original. In Scotland, a certified Medical Certificate of Cause of Death (MCCD) also known as the Form 11, must be completed by a doctor.

2 Will

If the deceased person left a Will, we will need to see the original Will or a copy which has been certified by a Solicitor or an Accountant as being a true copy of the original.

3 Identity documents

If you are the person dealing with the estate and you do not have an account with us, you need to prove your identity and address.

If you are not a customer of ours, here's some help with what you need to post to UK Breavements Support Team, 1st Floor, 92 Ann Street, Belfast, BT1 3HH. All copies of your documents must be certified copies – that is, copies branded and signed by a Solicitor or an Accountant.

The name on the Proof of Address must match the name on the Photo ID. E-Bills and e-statements are not acceptable. If the total value of the deceased customer's accounts held with AIB (GB) is more than £25,000 we will require proof of identification from the Executor(s) or Administrator(s) named in the Will or Grant of Representation or in Scotland Confirmation of the Estate. If the total value of the deceased customer's accounts held with Allied Irish Bank (GB) is £25,000 or less, or where there is no valid Will, we will require proof of identification of the next of kin / who is administering the Estate and where applicable proof of their relationship to the deceased (e.g. birth certificate or marriage certificate).

3. What happens to the accounts?

If there is money in accounts belonging to the person who has died and they also have a loan, credit card or overdraft with us, we may use this money straight away to pay off what is owed. After that, what happens depends on whether the account is a sole account or a joint account. A sole account is an account held by one person in their own name. A joint account is held by two or more people in all their names.

1 Sole current accounts

We will stop all payments out of any sole current account belonging to the person who has died. This means we will not pay direct debits or standing orders. This may affect regular payments such as insurance premiums, domestic utility bills and subscriptions.

2 Joint current accounts

If you held an account with the person who died, the money in that account usually becomes yours. We can check that for you. You can turn it into a sole account, or close it.

Remember that if you close the account, you will need to set up any direct debits or standing orders again.

3 Safe keeping

Please let us know if there are items that we were keeping safe for the person who died. We will also check if we have any items held in their name. If we discover anything in safe keeping, we will contact the person representing the estate.

4 Life assurance

If the person who died had a life assurance or mortgage protection policy, you will need to contact the life assurance company.

5 Loans, overdrafts and credit cards

If there is money in any account belonging to the person who died and they also have a loan, credit card or overdraft with us, we may use that straight away to pay off what is owed.

If there is not enough to pay any loan, credit card balance or overdraft owed by the person who died, the loan must be paid off by the estate.

If you and the person who has died had a loan or overdraft together, please contact us as soon as possible. You must continue to repay it.

We cancel any credit cards held in the name of the person who died including any cards for other users on the account.

6 Mortgages

Usually a life assurance or mortgage protection policy will clear the mortgage loan. You can apply to postpone the mortgage repayments for six months until the policy claim comes through.

If you held a mortgage with the person who has died, please contact us as soon as possible. We can discuss what to do next with a mortgage.

If you think you may have difficulty repaying a loan or mortgage, please let us know. We have helped lots of customers in similar situations. Here's the important thing – ignoring money problems usually makes them worse.

There is a section on our website Worried About Payments - Allied Irish Bank \(GB\) \(aibgb.co.uk\). If you're worried, it's best to make a plan. Read that section for tips, and if you would like more information, you can call us on 0345 600 5925.

7 General insurance

If the person who died had general insurance products such as car, home, travel, you will need to contact the insurance company.

5. This checklist may help

To help you keep track of what you need to do, see the below checklist.

- 1 Tell us who has died
- Let us know when someone dies so that we can find their accounts.

- 2 Pay for the funeral
- If there is enough money in the accounts held in the name of the person who died, we can pay for the funeral from this money. In addition, we can use the accounts to pay for expenses such as flowers and catering.

- 3 Get money from the accounts
- If there is less than £25,000 in the accounts.

- 4 Convert or close joint accounts
- If you held a joint current account with the person who died, you may be able to turn it into a sole account or close it. If you held a joint deposit account, you will need to close the account by taking the money out.

Here are the documents that you will need to complete each step

For each of these documents, we will need to see the original or a copy certified by a Solicitor or an Accountant.

7. Legal terms explained

During this time you may come across legal terms that you may not be familiar with. We have included an explanation of the most common terms to help you.

Administrator

This is the person appointed by the High Court to administer the Estate of the deceased where a person died Intestate or where someone other than the Executor applies for a Grant of Representation.

Certificate of Interest

A statement of the interest charged or earned on an account over a specified period of time.

Death Certificate

A document issued by the Registrar of Births, Marriages and Deaths certifying the death of a person.

Estate

All assets belonging to the deceased at the time of his/her death.

Executor

An executor is the person whom the deceased nominated in their Will to administer his/her Estate. An executor is the person entitled to extract the Grant of Probate on the Estate of the deceased.

Grant of Letters of Administration Intestate

If the deceased died intestate (without having made a valid Will), the High Court will issue a document called a Grant of Letters of Administration Intestate. This document names the administrator(s) who have been appointed to administer the Estate of the deceased.

Grant of Probate

If the deceased died testate (having made a valid Will) and the executor(s) are agreeable to act in this capacity, the High Court will issue a document called a Grant of Probate. The Grant of Probate will state the name(s) of the executor(s) of the Estate.

Grant of Representation

A generic term and can refer to any of the following types of grants which would be issued by the High Court e.g. a grant of probate, a grant of letters of administration intestate, etc.

There are other grants but probate and letters of administration are the most common.

Confirmation of the Estate (Scotland ONLY)

Is a legal document from the court giving the Executor(s) authority to uplift any money or other property belonging to a deceased person from the holder (such as the bank), and to administer and distribute it according to law. An application is lodged with the sheriff court.

Indemnity

In the context of this document, a contractual promise to compensate Allied Irish Bank (GB) for any loss, damage or expense which may be incurred by Allied Irish Bank (GB) due to it releasing funds from the deceased's account(s) without production of a Grant of Representation.

Intestate

Where a person dies without having made a valid Will, he/she is said to have died intestate.

Next of Kin

In the context of this document, a person's closest living relative or relatives, who is/ are entitled to administer the Estate of the deceased in accordance with the intestacy laws of the relevant legal jurisdiction.

Personal Representative

This term can be used for both executors and administrators.

Testate
